MORE ABOUT ONE-EYED CARS
For a couple of months before Christmas, I wrote from page editorials week after week about one-eyed automobiles on the highways around Lake Okechobee. I had thought to have to admit that all of my raving didn't do a darned bit of good—but that is almost the case. However, I have noted that the members of the police force in Pahokee have been bearing down a little on the drivers of one-eyed cars. If other officials have done anything about it, I haven't learned about it yet. I see by a Miami daily where the governor may send troops to Miami to stop gambling. I wonder if he couldn't have a regiment stop off in the Lake region, long enough to have some of the reckless drivers put two lights on their cars.

When I say one-eyed cars are dangerous on the highways—I mean just that. And I say they are—anytime there are any cars that at night after dark from Canal Point to Belle Glade encounter not less than two cars with improper lights. It is a dangerous situation and it could be remedied by proper steps being taken. Who are in authority, I am not wondering how the situation will continue as it is now.

It would be so simple to remedy the situation if those who have the power would bear down a little and let the motorists know that they actually mean business. An arrest here and there and the word would spread like wildfire. People would begin to feel that people who drive cars now that it is absolutely necessary that they have the vehicle properly lighted after night.

It isn't unusual to see two or three one-eyed cars between Canal Point and Belle Glade. Therefore, I feel safe in offering that little lighter on the road for one might see between Canal Point and Belle Glade.

Herbert Gardner Named Bureau Manager; Office In Belle Glade

The Everglades Credit Bureau, Inc., came officially into existence Monday, January 9, at a meeting of temporary directors in attendance of Herbert D. Beck's office, president of the bureau. The bureau is headed by C. V. Parkinson of Cleveland, vice president and Victor C. Baker of Pahokee, secretary-treasurer. These men will hold office until the first annual election to be held July 1, 1938.

It is a long fight by the credit bureau of the Glades area to establish a system of credit control in protection of local merchants, has finally been won. It is significant that the bureau is an outgrowth of the Everglades Credit Association, an association which was formed early last summer. The bureau will cover the entire Lake Okechobee farming region and will possess the full time services of an active manager and the facilities of a permanent establishment.

H. C. Gardner, well known Belle Glade citizen, is at the helm of the bureau, organization as manager. SON ARRIVES ON DAD'S BIRTHDAY

Coincidental, perhaps—but just the same—Robert Chambers Jr. of 10-pound boy born to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Chambers on January 7, was born on his father's birthday.

Members of the city council Wednesday congratulated Mr. Chambers and his wife for the birth of their son.

A warning was issued this week by W. M. Stafford, chief of the Everglades Fire Control district, that a danger existed in burning trash or otherwise starting fires in the muck under pressure.

A deficiency of approximately 25 inches of rainfall in 1938 has made the muck in the Everglades as dry as a camp fire can easily start a costly muck fire, he pointed out. It is reported that a fire of any size in the Everglades will not burn.

For the past month, Chief Stafford and his crew have been fighting an extensive muck fire near Brighton in Highlands county, which is now reported to be under control. The Everglades Fire Control district comprises a total of 11 counties in southeastern Florida.

Two Cars Crash On Conner's Highway

Miraculously escaping death Saturday afternoon were the occupants of two automobiles that figured in a head-on collision Saturday afternoon along Conner's highway near Twenty Mile Bend. One car was driven by Mrs. J. H. Chambers, enroute to West Palm Beach. The other was driven by Wilbur Mack, enroute to Pahokee.

In the Jensen, were Misses Mary Jean Handley, Josephine Armstrong, Virginia McClure and June McKinstrey. In the Maxwell were Mrs. Ira Fausner and her daughter, Miss Izetta. Mrs. Fausner received severe head wounds which necessitated 18 stitches to close. She is recuperating as well as could be expected.

The girls in the Jensen car were badly shaken up when the machine turned over twice. Most severely hurt was Miss McKinstrey, who was injured in the crash. The driver escaped serious bruises. The accident happened when a tire on the Maxwell car burst, causing it to leave the path of the Jensen car. Both cars were badly wrecked.

Gladioli Industry At Port Mayaca Is Of Much Interest

Peet Brothers Successful In Their New Enterprise

An interesting story appeared in the Miami Herald Sunday concerning the gladioli industry at Port Mayaca. The story was written by James A. Stafford of the Herald staff and is reproduced in full below.

A new and unique industry introduced into the Everglades is the gladioli growing enterprise, which was started at Port Mayaca two years ago by Peet brothers of Newfield, N. J. According to A. J. Peet, the location of their winter agricultural pursuits is as near perfect as possible. Pointing with pride to one of the beautiful blooms, Mr. Peet said, "This flower is as good as any" hothouse plant."

The Peet brothers have been engaged in flower growing all their lives. Natives of Holland, they came to this country to avoid the excessive taxation placed on flower growers there. They started their business in this country with capital of $500. Today the Peet brothers are growing gladioli in New Jersey during the summer and journey here for the winter season, which runs from September to February.

Peet brothers have ten 20-acre fields under cultivation this year. They lease the fields, which form a part of the drainage district and are thoroughly irrigated. Rows of Australian plants surround each field, providing windbreaks for the slender stalks.

The Peets cultivate only 10 of the 5,000 known varieties of the gladioli, but their plants find a ready market regardless of the season. The plants are shipped to the field, while others may be sent. Varieties differ in time required for maturity, but early kinds will produce buds in 10 to 15 days, while others may take as long as 100 days. A crew of 20 men begin to cut the flowers in the field as the buds are in the field so the buds may be brought and the bloom will not be closed.

FROST BULLETINS AVAILABLE DAILY AT STATE STATION

The state automobile license inspector Wednesday informed E. H. Harris, Belle Glade, and Mrs. R. W. Powell, Pahokee, who are taking orders for tags that the official deadline for the securing of 1939 automobile tags is January 15 and that no indication has been given that the deadline would be extended.

It was pointed out that, ever one-half of the automobile owners throughout the state had failed to secure their tags by January 15 and urged all who had not already purchased tags to do so before the final rush.

Governor Cone is the only person authorized to extend the deadline period for the tags and he has given no indication that he will do so. Large numbers of the receipts from tag sales go directly into the State Board of Education, which is the payment of teachers' salaries. The fund for this purpose is reportedly short and citizens of this state are urged to appear to it in an effort to remove the danger of pay-day for the teachers.

Pumps Are Used As Siphons In Glades Drainage Section

Unusual Plan Saves Many Dollars For Drainage District

J. F. Scullen, of Belle Glade, an official of the Florida Conservancy district, reported last week that a new system of siphoning for the drainage district had been used to great success. In the drainage district, the siphoning system is being used to pump water into the canals from the water supply system.

Each of the district's several pumps is siphoning the water into the canals for irrigation purposes. Operating the pumps in the usual manner cost about $200 each, while the present siphoning system has saved the district many dollars. The pumps have been removed from the six large pumps and the water started through them by running the engines and creating a vacuum.

Operation of the pumps in this manner will save the district the water under the canals remain six or seven inches higher than the level inside. Constant operation of the pumps is necessary in order to supply the heavy draw from the canals due to the excessive dry season.

There is a young boy of 18 years in Georgia who says he would not swap his job for any other position that might be offered him. He has a 35-acre farm which he owns and this year he made 200 bushels of sweet potatoes, 250 bushels of corn, 800 gallons of syrup, 5 acres of cotton and a tobacco crop that was profitable. He owns 60 head of hogs, 15 beef cattle, a good cow, a storehouse containing 80 quarts of string-beans, 80 quarts of tomatoes and a number of jars of peaches and other fruits. This young man asks for nothing more, is satisfied and pleased with his labor and his earnings. The wonder of paying the grocery man is not for him—he grows his own. But a case like this is not exceptional. It is only brought to the attention of our readers to remind them that if it can be done in Georgia it can be done here.

Hooker And Jones Start Harvest Of 345 Acres of Cane

Use Specially Built Wagon To Transport Cane From Field

Walter Hooker and Luther Jones, Belle Glade farming operators, began harvest of their first crop of sugar cane last week from 345 acres planting near Bean City. They are among the 15 Everglades farmers who are engaged in the production of cane for processing by the United States Sugar corporation under contract.

Employment in the harvesting operations totals nearly 100 men. Cane is delivered on cars at a 15-cent sliding on the farm for transportation to the mill at Clewiston. Specially built cane wagons, designed by Jones and George Yon, Clewiston, and costing approximately $450 each, are drawn by a tractor and haul cane from the field to the loading station. Cane wagons commonly used in the Everglades sugar producing area cost approximately three times more than the cost of them when specially built wagons. Main difference is in the use of rubber tires instead of the usual steel tracks. These wagons can be handled by ordinary farm tractors instead of the high cost power units ordinarily used. It was asserted.

Both wagons are about 30 feet long and contain a three-ton capacity. Mr. Jones and Mr. Hooker estimate their crop will average 30 tons to the acre this year. They figure their production cost at 75 cents a ton and the expense of harvesting and loading the company cars at $1.20 per ton. The cane, purchased on the basis of its sugar content, is bringing $2.27 per ton, according to Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones stated this week that although the present crop was their first, they have gone far enough to convince them that sugar cane can be produced profitably by the individual Everglades farmer and that he can reasonably expect an average profit of from $25 to $45 an acre.

A general raising of the government's sugar cane quota for this area will greatly emphasize individual farming activities in this crop, it is expected. There is a possibility that an additional grinding mill might be erected in the Glades in the event quotas are raised and cane growing becomes more general.

Motorist Is Hurt When Car Wrecks

John Daniels, 40, of St. Petersburg, was seriously injured Tuesday morning when his heavy automobile skidded on State Road 25 about 10 miles west of W. Palm Beach and turned over a number of times. Daniels was taken to a West Palm Beach hospital where it was determined that he had suffered head lacerations, a hip injury and possible internal injuries. He was reported improving later in the week.

The accident, according to Daniels, occurred when he was driving westward at about 40 miles an hour over slick road and pulled too far to the side of the road in meeting an oncoming car. He lost control of the machine and went off the road, he said.
